To Address Democrats

SIDNEY S. MCMATH

Major General Sidney S. McMATH, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve, and former Governor of Arkansas, will be the principle speaker at the first public meeting of the newly organized Hempstead County Democratic Club, Tuesday, January 17, at 6:30 p. m. at the Town & Country Restaurant.

General McMATH is one of the outstanding men of Arkansas. A graduate from the University of Arkansas, he served in the U. S. Marines from August 7, 1940 to February 1, 1946. He received a battlefield promotion to Lt. Colonel at Bougainville and has been decorated with the Silver Star and Legion of Merit. In March of 1952, he was promoted to the rank of full Colonel in the Marine Corps Reserve; in January, 1963, promoted to Brigadier General and in January, 1966, promoted to the rank of Major General, U. S. Marine Corps Reserve. He was also appointed to the Reserve Forces Policy Board by Secretary of Defense McNamara for a three-year term.

McMATH has won national recognition as one of the outstanding Democratic leaders in Southern politics. Returning to civilian life in February, 1946, he announced a specific aim to break the political machine in Hot Springs. This he did and was elected Prosecuting Attorney of the 12th Judicial District. In 1948, he won the Democratic nomination for Governor of Arkansas and in 1950 was re-elected Governor by a tremendous majority. In that year he was named one of the ten outstanding men of the United States by the National Union Chamber of Commerce.

General McMATH is a member of the Pulaski Heights Methodist Church, a teacher of the Men's Bible Class and a member of the Board of Trustees.

Decides Not to Subpoena Rockefeller

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Assistant Atty. Gen. Eugene Hale said Thursday night he would not subpoena Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller to testify at a hearing on proposed automobile insurance rate increases.

Hale had said earlier that he would, but Rockefeller said Thursday he would voluntarily appear if he was politely asked to. The hearing is scheduled Feb. 23.

Hale said increases sought by various companies would cost Arkansians about $10 million annually in premiums.

"Rockefeller has not listed his interests in these particular insurance companies," Hale said.

Hale said Rockefeller "delayed the most recent scheduled insurance hearing that was set for Jan. 11, and ordered Insurance Commissioner Harvey Combs to postpone the hearing until Feb. 23."

"The insurance companies received rate increases without public knowledge prior to May 1965," Hale said, "and I believe the people are entitled to a public hearing on any matter which concerns the people where a government agency has the authority to affect the welfare and well being of the people."

Hale said he expects Rockefeller to postpone a hearing on the rate increase until after the legislative session.

New System in N.Y. Courts

NEW YORK (AP) — A six-month trial period of around-the-clock arrangements for most criminal charges begins in New York's criminal courts Wednesday.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, in making the announcement Monday, said the new system is being tried in efforts to get more policemen out of courts and on the streets, speed up court arraignment calendars and eliminate unnecessary overnight jailing of some defendants.

Negroes Plan Battle for Powell

NEW YORK (AP) — Civil rights leader A. Philip Randolph says he intends to call a "Negro summit conference" to consider possible action against congressmen responsible for Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's congressional troubles.

Powell was ousted from his House committee chairmanship Tuesday and has been deprived — at least temporarily — of his seat in the 90th Congress.

Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, said Thursday he believed the congressional action against the Harlem Negro congressman "reflected the great crisis in Negro-white relations."

The over-all aim of the conference, Randolph said, would be to re-examine and revise Negro strategy against what he termed "the white power structure."

One close associate of Randolph said Rep. Emanuel Celler, a veteran Brooklyn Democrat, would be named as one of the targets because he did not "actively" work to save Powell.

Cells responded by noting that he had been the author and floor manager of all the House civil rights bills since 1960.

He added: "They can do what they wish. It's up to them. But they had better be careful, because their sword may be bent against themselves. The action against Powell was not a racial act. If they do what they propose, they will only intensify the (white) backlash and reap the whirlwind."

In Philadelphia Thursday, Carl T. Rowan, former head of the U. S. Information Agency, said race was a major factor behind the moves against Powell.

"I cannot say in honesty that I think it (race) was the major factor, but I know deep in my heart that race was a major factor," said Rowan, also a Negro, who now writes a syndicated column.

At a meeting of the Philadelphia Fellowship Commission Rowan said one question was whether Powell's "alleged sins" were so much greater than other members of Congress. "My special firsthand knowledge of the activities of several congressmen forces me to say no," he said.

Meeting in Miami, Fla., the National Newspaper Publishers Association called Powell a "crusader for freedom and equality" and issued a demand that he be given his seat in Congress.

$91 Million in Vietnam Aid Missing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ernest Gruening says 20 percent — or $91 million — of U. S. economic aid to Vietnam was lost through theft and diversion last year.

And the Alaska Democrat, chairman of a Senate subcommittee on foreign aid, added that his 20 percent estimate probably was low. He noted that some other sources had estimated losses as high as 40 to 50 percent.

Another member of Congress joined Gruening today in doubting that the loss in Vietnam aid through theft and diversion is as low as the government's official 1 to 6 percent estimate.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of the House Foreign Operations subcommittee, said "no one really knows what the figure is." He added that if the 5 to 6 percent estimate made by the Agency for International Development is correct, "They have indeed achieved a miracle."

Gruening's estimate Thursday of 20 percent losses for the year was close to that reported in a series of Associated Press articles in November following a two-month investigation by a team of AP newsmen.

Marine Corps General Dies at 84

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Retired Marine Corps Gen. Holland M. "Howlin' Mad" Smith, who led massive amphibious assaults on the Japanese during World War II, died Thursday at age 84.

He suffered a heart attack November 14 and had been in critical condition at Balboa Naval Hospital since Dec. 13.

Known as the father of amphibious warfare, he gained fame while leading American forces to victory in the Gilberts, Marshalls, Marianas and Iwo Jima campaigns.

A lifetime lawyer, Gen. Smith became a Marine almost by accident.

In 1905, he applied for a commission in the Army, but was turned down because there were no vacancies. When told the Marine Corps had vacancies, Smith asked, "What are the Marines?"

He was told — and then he joined.

Two wars and 41 years later, Gen. Smith retired, wearing the Distinguished Service Medal.

His "Howlin' Mad" nickname came from his outbursts at men who didn't follow instructions and machines that didn't work.

Although his success in storming the shores of islands heavily defended by the Japanese took a high toll in lives, Gen. Smith maintained that "no way has ever been found to make wars safe and easy."

Just before World War II, he took a Marine brigade to Cuba for seven months of amphibious training, and then returned to train other Marine units and the Army in the art of amphibious warfare.

Troops trained in his methods were successful in Europe and the Pacific, and played a major role in the war.

In 1943, Smith commanded the 3rd Amphibious Corps, and the next year was named commander of the newly created Fleet Marine Force.

Smith was born on April 20, 1882 at Seale, Ala., and received a law degree from the University of Alabama.

His son, Rear Adm. John Victor Smith, is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy and is attached to the Pentagon.

His grandson, Holland M. Smith II, is a Navy ensign heading for Vietnam.

A military funeral service with a 17-gun salute will be held Saturday at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot Chapel in San Diego. He will be buried at San Diego's Ft. Rosecrans National Cemetery.

LOW BLOOD PRESSURE
By Dr. Charles Johnson

A few weeks back a young mother came to us complaining with lack of energy or as she stated "I feel all washed out." Frequent headaches, sharp stabbing pains in her neck and shoulders. Our routine spinal and nerve examination revealed the cause to be pressure at the base of her skull. Since beginning to receive Corrective Chiropractic Adjustments, her blood pressure is almost normal and that washed out feeling is gone. She reports no pain in the head, neck or shoulders. Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The big battle next Sunday, as far as CBS and NBC is concerned, is not between the Green Bay Packers and the Kansas City Chiefs at the Super Bowl. It is between the two networks and the struggle is to attract the bigger audience.

This struggle is reflected in the constant promotion and the frantic plugging of the professional football championship game that is currently cluttering the commercial breaks and even the body of entertainment shows.

The game itself is a pool job to which CBS cameramen and production staff have been assigned. Therefore, whether you tune in NBC or CBS, the basic picture of the game will be the same.

This leaves the viewer with two simple decisions. First, which channel provides the best, clearest picture on his set? Second, which team of announcers does he prefer—Frank Gifford and CBS colleagues or Paul Christman and his helpers on NBC?

NBC is more worried about the outcome of the audience battle than CBS, mostly because it broadcasts games of the AFL, a younger league that does not have quite the same big city coverage built by the NFL which has been CBS' coverage responsibility. Habit, the NBC executives fear, result in having hard-core NFL fans tune in on their accustomed station, a CBS affiliate.

This rivalry for audience is similar to the fierce fight that is constantly waged between NBC's Huntley-Brinkley and CBS' Walter Cronkite in the news field.

Christman and Gifford, the rival analysts, are both retired professional football stars who have transferred to sportscasting. Their partners in reporting the game are all seasoned in the specialty.

ABC launched television's Wednesday old movie night — there are now six such nights a week — and although the feature qualified as old, it was not exactly vintage stock. It was the 1955 "Ulysses," that opened by retelling the story of the Trojan Horse. But between the dubbed voices of the foreign actors and the mob scenes, the film came over the small screen looking like a crazy cross between "Batman" and an ancient C.B. De Mille spectacle seen through the wrong end of a telescope.

Recommended tonight: "Dragnet," NBC, 9:30-10 EST, return of the popular old police series with Jack Webb in his old role and Harry Morgan as his new partner; "Sex in the Sixties," ABC, 10-11, a documentary examination of the younger generation and the new morality.

There are tent coats that have their fling only at the back. Others swing wide all around from a narrow top. And there are baby tents, seamed in the round for just a slight flare.

If the tent shape has no appeal for you you can still be part of the spring fashion story in a slim cardigan coat, a shirt coat (shaped like a long shirt with buttoned cuffs) or a new coat shape inspired by the greatcoat worn by men in the 18th Century. This is fitted, with a flared skirt and cutaway collar.

Fabrics used are chiefly gabardine, wool jersey, twill and wool melton.

Colors are bright and often beautifully teamed. But navy, taupe, gray and white still hold their own.

Raspberry, lemon, tangerine, orange and lime may sound like an order for the fruit market but these shades will be dotting every avenue on the backs of fashionable women this season.

The Mont Blanc tunnel, 7 1/2 miles long, is an all-season link between Italy and France through the Alps.

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help US!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush-off.

Send your teenage questions to Helen Help US!, this newspaper.

AGGRESSIVE MAN CHASER

Dear Helen: I have a problem that seems to be quite common nowadays — that is tending off overeager females who have their eye on other women's men. Our family gathered for a holiday dinner. My younger brother is fighting in the Army overseas, but his new wife was there. She started casually talking to my fiancé, and I thought nothing of it until she suddenly pulled him into her lap in full view of the family.

I calmly told him to come sit by me, which he did. After seeing she was getting nowhere with my fiancé, she sat down between my other married brother and my father, though there was no room and she had to squeeze. Then she told my brother her car needed fixing. He went out with her and was gone about an hour when he came rushing in and he, his wife and children left suddenly. I talked to him the next day; all he would say was his younger brother didn't know what he had landed! His wife is splitting fire at both him and this female. Somehow I don't think it was his fault.

I don't want my brother finding out about his wife's actions. Yet the family is up in arms about them, and I certainly don't want any more trouble with her. I can understand the need she has for male companionship, but I don't like my fiancé being my brother's replacement! What should we do? — WORRIED SIS

Dear Worried: Don't tell your absent brother: he has enough troubles fighting on the front lines, without getting involved in battles on the home front.

DO keep the men in your family out of this tigress' reach. — H.

Dear Helen: The response to VIETNAM MAILCALL, since you mentioned it in your column, has been tremendous — over 500 letters in the first wave of mail, and they're still pouring in. Please tell all who are writing that their letters are being forwarded to mail-hungry men overseas, and they are appreciated more than they'll ever know.

We can use as many letters as your readers will write — both from adults and young people, and we appreciate the two stamps or dime they send, as our funds were just about depleted for this non-profit work. — PAUL STEWART, Project Coordinator, VIETNAM MAILCALL, P. O. Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia, 31903

Dear Readers: Keep the letters coming: As one of the Vietnam jungle fighters said, "A happy soldier is one who is well-read!" Send your letters in a plain envelope, inside an envelope addressed to VIETNAM MAILCALL, P. O. Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia, Enclose either two five-cent stamps or a dime. Make them interesting.

Czech UN Worker Resigns Post

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A Czechoslovak employee of the United Nations has reportedly resigned and returned home following published reports that the United States had accused him of espionage.

Czechoslovak sources said Evzen Vacek left New York Saturday. Vacek, employed in the U.N. Department of Political and Security Council Affairs since last summer, has not been at work since the story broke late last month.

The published report said the suspect had tried to obtain classified information on military and scientific projects. It added that Vacek told U.N. Secretary-General U Thant that the United States tried to enlist him as a secret agent after he learned he was under U.S. surveillance.

A U.S. spokesman denied the accusation but confirmed that a CALL, P. O. Box 3104-A, Columbus, Georgia, Enclose either two five-cent stamps or a dime. Make them interesting.

Bobcats Play Fights Last Night 2 at Home This Weekend

By LARRY DON WRIGHT
Hope Star Sports Writer

The Hope Bobcats will play a pair of home games this weekend against district opponents Magnolia and Arkadelphia on Friday and Saturday nights respectively.

After splitting a pair of conference tilts last weekend to open their 44A schedule, the Cats stand a good chance of staying in high contention through their second week of action.

This week's opponents promise to be somewhat weaker than the Cats' first foes, Fairview and Smackover, who were predicted prior to the season to finish first and second.

Ironically, the Bobcats overcame the prime threat in Fairview only to fall to Smackover the next night.

However, this week the Cats will have their home court, Jones Field House, on which they downed Fairview, to their advantage. In fact the Bobcats have yet to lose a home game this year.

In addition Fairview will get a crack at undefeated Smackover this week. A Fairview victory could throw the league race into a several team tie which would include Hope if they get by both Magnolia and Arkadelphia.

This weekend marks the only weekend on the Bobcats season schedule during which play at home on both Friday and Saturday nights.

After one week of the Region 44A schedule it appears that the district is as closely matched team per team this year as it has been in recent years. Although it looks as though a few teams will be rough there are no near-unconquerable giants such as Crossett was last year.

The Bobcats will play prior to the senior game on both nights. The junior high game will begin at 8:30.

Spurrier to Start With the Giants

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (AP) — Steve Spurrier began his athletic career in a Giants' uniform — and now he may become a Giant again.

The Florida All-America quarterback, whose first sports was as an Athens, Tenn., Giant Little League in 1952, has been mentioned as a first-round draft choice of the New York Giants of the National Football League.

At Steve Spurrier Day here Thursday, when his former hometown honored him with a round of activities, the Heisman Trophy winner said:

"I think it would be a great challenge to play," for the Giants.

"I look on pro ball as just another step up in football," said Spurrier, an All-State quarterback at Johnson City's Science Hill High in 1952.

Nobody Seems Interested in Hawks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nobody seems to want to buy the St. Louis Hawks, which perhaps is just as well because Don Ohl seems to own them already.

Just as it was being learned Thursday that the New Orleans group that had offered $3.8 million for the Hawks had lowered its bid, Baltimore, led by Ohl's 41 points, broke a 13-game National Basketball Association losing streak with a 137-117 triumph.

A spokesman for the Hawks said the new bid by the New Orleans group was not satisfactory and that owner Ben Kerner, who wants to sell because of illness, was hoping for other offers.

Ohl broke open what had been a tight game with 18 last-quarter points. The game was tied at 105 with 8:47 left before a free throw by Gus Johnson, returning to action after missing eight games because of a knee injury, put the bullets ahead for good.

In the only other game Thursday night, the Warriors rallied in the final period and overhauled New York 127-123 at San Francisco.

Rick Barry paced the Warriors with 41 points.

Buckpasser Makes 4 Yr. Old Debut

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Millionaire Buckpasser, 1966 Horse of the Year, makes his 4-year-old debut Saturday in the $50,000-added San Fernando Stakes at Santa Anita and launches the campaign of the Phipps family and trainer Eddie Delo to retain money winning titles they won last year with record smashing figures.

The son of Tom Fool-Busanda, winner of $1,237,174, will tote 124 pounds and meet some of the same rivals he whipped two weeks ago on the last day of 1966 in the seven furlongs of the Malibu.

The San Fernando is at 1 1/4 miles — a distance at which Buckpasser never was beaten as he chalked up 13 straight victories last year after running second in his first start.

The Ogden Phipps ace will race one more time at Santa Anita — the $100,000-added Strub Jan. 26 — before repeating the remainder of the stable in Florida.

Neloy, who saddled winners of $2,456,250 and 41 stakes last year for Ogden Phipps, his mother, Mrs. H.C. Phipps, and son Danny, will be represented in four stakes next week.

He will take a crack at the $50,000-added Tropical Park Handicap on Monday with Superdome, a 4-year-old; go after the $25,000-added Royal Poinciana on opening day at Hialeah Park Tuesday with Bold And Brave, another 4-year-old; the $25,000-added Jasmine on Wednesday with the 3-year-old filly Irish County, and the $25,000-added Hubsious on Saturday with Great White Way, a member of his powerful string of 3-year-olds.

Buckpasser has to finish only fourth or better to pass Carry Back and move into fourth place in the equine millionaire's club. Carry Back earned $1,241,167. Kelsa tops the list with $1,577,896.

There is a possibility that Neloy may decide to send Poked out as a running mate for the big Train of the turf. Definite opponents include Drim, runner-up to Buckpasser in the Malibu; Pretense, Embassy, Fleet Host, Fleet Show and Yonder.

Drim and Pretense, comprising the trainer Charlie Whittingham entry, will receive six pounds each from the champion and the others as much as 12.

Monroe Racing Away With Scoring Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Monroe of Winston-Salem is running away with the small-college basketball scoring title, according to statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau.

Monroe, a 6-4 and 175-pound guard from Philadelphia, is scoring at an average of 43.3 points per game and has thrown in more than 50 points four times this season.

Willie Scott of Alabama State is second with 34.8 points. Kentucky Wesleyan is tops in scoring margin, having beaten its opponents by an average of 12.5 points per game.

Stillman, Ala., is best in total offense with 112.1 points per game and Ashland, Ohio, is best in total defense having allowed opponents 48.2 points per game.

Appleton Is Happy With His Trade

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Former All-America tackle Scott Appleton says he is happy the Houston Oilers have traded him to the San Diego Chargers.

Appleton and linebacker Johnny Baker were traded Thursday to the Chargers for cornerback Miller Farr in a straight-playoff deal between the two American Football League teams.

The swap apparently was the first of what Oilers management indicated would be "some sweeping changes" at the close of the 1966 season.

Appleton said he had no bitterness toward the Oilers but "I'm glad I'm going. I was pleased that I was traded. I really wasn't very surprised."

Appleton, the 6-foot-3, 260-pound former Texas star, signed in early 1964 what was described as the biggest contract ever given an Oiler lineman.

It amounted to a $150,000 package deal, with Appleton receiving $104,000 in cash for four seasons of play, service station franchises, a dealership representing a chemical fodder process and 30 head of cattle for his father's ranch.

Pittsburgh of the National Football League also sought to sign Appleton.

Baker, a 6-3, 238-pound veteran, from Mississippi State, was Houston's seventh round draft choice in 1963.

Farr, a 6-1, 192-pounder from Beaumont, Tex., played his college ball at Wichita. He has 9.7 sprinter's speed and next year will be his third pro campaign.

Dean's Truck Stop, opens their Invitational Independent Basketball Tournament tonight (Fri.) at 7:00 at the Patmos Gym.

Four teams are entered. First game pits the Texarkana Hustlers against the Guernsey Independents. The second game will see Dean's Truckers take on the Perry's Truck Stop Team.

On Saturday night the winners of these games will face each other and the losers will play for third place.

Giacomin's Self-help Plan Works

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ed Giacomin's self-help plan has him leading the National Hockey League in goaltending and the defensive prosperity has spread throughout his New York Ranger teammates.

Giacomin lowered his average to a sparkling 2.09 Thursday with his fifth shutout of the season as the Rangers regained sole possession of first place with a 3-0 victory over Boston. Chicago fell two points back of New York, dropping a 4-1 decision to Detroit.

"I was really disappointed after last season," admits Giacomin, who struggled through a woeful rookie season. "I figured the only way I could improve was with more practice."

Defenseman Jim Neilson gave Giacomin the only goal he needed with a second period score. Then Bob Nevin and Vic Hadfield hit in the final 20 minutes for the Rangers.

Bobby Hull scored his eighth goal in four games in Chicago but it wasn't nearly enough against the 50-shot assault Detroit threw at Black Hawk goalie Glenn Hall.

Paul Henderson scored twice for the Red Wings and Gordie Howe picked up a pair of assists. The goals were the 13th and 14th for Henderson, who was out six weeks with a respiratory ailment.

Dean Prentice and Bruce McGregor scored the other Detroit goals.

Super Bowl on TV at 4 p.m. Sunday

Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The suddenly developed Horning hunch heightened interest at the Super Bowl site today as both the Green Bay Packers and Kansas City Chiefs went through their final workouts in preparation for Sunday's first clash of pro football champions.

The first major question on the battle between the National and American Football League champions developed when the rival coaches pointed to Green Bay's Paul Hornung as player who could make a difference in this rich struggle for supremacy.

Not only will pride be on the line in the long-awaited game, which will be televised and broadcast nationally by both NBC and CBS at 4:05 p.m., EST, but record payoffs of $15,000 to each member of the winning team and $7,500 to each loser.

With that substantial pot of gold up for grabs, the Horning hunch first cropped up at the Chiefs' Long Beach, Calif., training camp, where Coach Hank Stram said:

"I don't have any particular reason for saying so—it's more like a feeling—but I think Hornung will see a considerable amount of action. He always plays extremely well in big games."

Asked about Stram's speculation at the Packers' Santa Barbara training site, Coach Vince Lombardi said:

"I think that's a very good answer."

He then went on to elaborate on the chances of using his former Golden Boy in the game.

"I really don't know who will start," Lombardi said, "but I'm a great hunch player. The game will dictate who plays and who doesn't. I'm not going to say who will get in or who won't get in. I probably won't know until Sunday."

"I'll have to say this though. Hornung may be the best pass receiver we have as far as running patterns. He knows when to stay on 'em and when to break them off. He reads defenses better than anyone else I know."

The Chiefs, meanwhile, were concerned about All-League tight end Fred Arbanas, who suffered a shoulder separation in the AFL championship game against Buffalo. Arbanas has been working out, but still is taking cortisone shots and is being fitted with a harness.

If Arbanas, who caught 22 passes for 305 yards and is an excellent blocker, cannot play, he very likely will be replaced by Reg Carolan, who saw little action during the season. Aaron Brown, a rookie defensive lineman, also has been working at the position.

Arbanas' absence undoubtedly would handicap Kansas City's passing attack since he has been one of Len Dawson's prime targets along with flanker Gus Taylor and split end Chris Burford.

is second with 34.8 points. Kentucky Wesleyan is tops in scoring margin, having beaten its opponents by an average of 12.5 points per game.

Chiefs Use Size, Speed and Strength

By MIKE RATHER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — If the Kansas City Chiefs are to upset the Green Bay Packers in Sunday's Super Bowl game it will take one intangible—motivation—and their three main assets: Size, strength and speed.

The three S's probably are Kansas City's main weapons, but the motivation remains an immeasurable factor as the two teams continue to work out in closed-door sessions for the first clash of the National and American football league champions.

The oddsmakers are sticking solidly behind Green Bay, but in AFL circles they're figuring the Chiefs can pull off the upset on the following basis:

Motivation

Jerry Mays, the Chiefs' defensive captain, probably expressed it best when he said:

"There are two motivations in this game. No. 1 the Packers pride to prove their reputation is justified; No. 2 the underdog role. We're the underdogs—the poor kids from across the tracks coming across to play against the rich kids who've had everything their way."

"I have to feel the underdog motivation is greater."

Size and Strength

Physically the Chiefs are as big—if not bigger—than any other team in pro football, and considerably more so than the Packers.

The Kansas City offensive line, for example, has such behemoths as Jim Tyrer, the 292-pound left tackle and Curt Merz, the 267-pound right guard. Green Bay's biggest are a pair of 250-pounders, tackles Bob Skoronski and Forrest Gregg.

Defensively, the Chiefs' front four is massive compared to Green Bay's, with 6-foot-4, 252-pound Jerry Mays and 6-6, 230-pound Chuck Hurston at the ends and 6-7, 287-pound Buck Buchanan and 6-3, 266-pound Andy Rice at the tackles.

Green Bay can't match that. As a matter of fact, counting offensive linemen, the defensive front four and the linebackers, the Chiefs are bigger at 10 of the 14 positions.

Speed

The names are Otis Taylor and Mike Garrett, and they're the threats Green Bay will have to stop. Taylor, a sophomore flanker, gained 1,297 yards on 58 catches this season while Garrett, a rookie running back, gained 801 yards for a league-leading 5.5 average.

The two are the core of the Chiefs' strike force and have the breakthrough speed that the Packers' can't match offensively.

Neither one is about to predict how they're going to do but maybe Taylor expressed their feelings best when he said:

"I'm not saying I'll catch 100 passes for 100 yards, but I will say I'll catch passes. Herb Adlerley is a great cornerback, but sooner or later—no matter how great they are—you can catch passes on them."

Taylor and Garrett, then, probably hold the key offensively. If they can do what they did during the AFL season—and in the AFL title game—the Chiefs could pull off the upset.

"We," said quarterback Len Dawson, "have the tools. We have to make proper use of them."

Niagara Player Scores 52 Points

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Calvin Murphy, Niagara's star freshman 5-foot-11 basketball player, scored 52 points in leading the Baby Eagles to a 120-95 victory over the Canisius frosh Thursday night.

OPPOSITE SIDES. Vince Lombardi, left, will guide the Green Bay Packers and Hank Stram will lead the Kansas City Chiefs from the sidelines in the first Super Bowl game in the Los Angeles Coliseum Jan. 15.

13th Jinx Could Topple UCLA Team

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Friday the 13th jinx may topple the top-ranked UCLA Bruins from the unbeaten ranks in college basketball tonight.

The No. 1 team in The Associated Press poll and its sophomore super-star, Lew Alcindor, risk their spotless 10-0 record against the California Bears, 7-3 in Los Angeles.

The Bears, led by 5-foot-10 Russ Critchfield and 6-2 Charlie Perkins will overcome the Bruins and the 7-13 Alcindor, but the California coach, is hoping for the best for his boys.

Once beaten Canisius, Boston College and Mississippi State took over the headlines Thursday night with all Top Ten teams in the AP poll idle.

Canisius made it seven in a row and 8-1 for the season by whipping Niagara 90-76 before 12,342 in Buffalo's Memorial Auditorium. It was the first game between the arch rivals in 10 years.

Andy Anderson and John Morrison each scored 23 points for Canisius. Butch Erwin topped Niagara with the same total.

Boston College, led by Terry Driscoll's 18 points, routed Duquesne 93-66 at Newton, Mass. for its 10th victory in 11 starts. In contrast Mississippi State, now 11-1, almost was upset by Little Delta State at Cleveland, Miss.

Led by Sammy Little's 26 points the Delta Statesmen led until the Maroon pulled out a 68-65 triumph in the last three minutes. A free throw by Dave Williams broke a 63-63 tie and put the Maroon ahead for good with 90 seconds left.

Colorado beat Iowa State 64-52, Tulsa downed North Texas 65-59, Clemson edged Furman 69-68, Tulane thumped Louisiana State 99-89, Northeastern nipped Rhode Island 65-63 and Fordham defeated Columbia 56-52 in other games.

Wills Ready by Signing With Pirates

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Let a smile be your umbrella," the song goes.

If that is the case, then Maury Wills apparently is ready for another stormy National League pennant race.

Wills, the shortstop who fell into disfavor with the Los Angeles Dodgers after the 1966 season and was traded to Pittsburgh, signed with the Pirates Thursday for an undisclosed amount. He received about $80,000 last season.

"He signed with a smile on his face," General Manager Joe L. Brown of the Pirates said. "I didn't have to twist his arm. So obviously he's satisfied, or he wouldn't have signed."

If the occasion struck a happy note for the Pirates and the 34-year-old shortstop, who is tabbed for third base duty with Pittsburgh, it brought a chorus of the blues from at least one other National League manager.

Leo Durocher of the Chicago Cubs said:

"If Kansas City scores two quickies, this could be a whale of a ball game. If the Packers get out front early, forcing the Chiefs to put the ball in the air, Green Bay could romp."

All right, so Cleveland did come over from the All America Conference and beat the Philadelphia Eagles in their first NFL game in 1950. Vince Lombardi wasn't around in those days.

Figures Starr Can Pick the Chiefs Apart

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Green Bay Packers should beat back the challenge of the Kansas City Chiefs in Sunday's Super Bowl because they have the quarterback in Bart Starr to pick apart the Chiefs' secondary and the defense to throttle the fast-striking attack of the American Football League champions.

In this first direct confrontation of the old established National Football League and the AFL, the Packers are determined to prove their right to be known as the very best team in professional football.

Several Packers were playing pro ball before the AFL was born. Many of them turned down fabulous bids to sign with AFL teams because they wanted to face the challenge of playing with the league they considered best. Now they must win or face up to the fact that they may have made a mistake when they signed their first contract.

This is a good football club, this Green Bay Packer team. It can hit through the air with Starr throwing to Carroll Dale, Boyd Dowler, Elijah Pitts, Jim Taylor or Marv Fleming. And it can strike along the ground with Taylor still capable of breaking tackles and running over people and Pitts slipping through a hole and vanishing in a burst of speed.

Most of all, it can stop the other fellow. Dallas shocked Coach Vince Lombardi and his staff by scoring 27 points on a team that grudgingly yielded only 163 points in 14 regular season games. It won't happen again.

Willie Davis, Ron Kostelnik, Henry Jordan and Lionel Aldridge are smaller but more mobile than the big front four of the Chiefs. The Packers' defensive line puts tremendous pressure on the passer and figures to get Lenny Dawson who was dropped eight times by Buffalo in the AFL title game.

Nobody in football can match the Packers' linebackers of Dave Robinson, Ray Nitschke and Lee Roy Caffey who blitz only about five per cent of the time but normally let the line rush while they peel off to cover a pass and turn in a runner.

Herb Adlerley and Bob Jeter, two fine corner backs, did an excellent job in holding Bob Hayes of Dallas to one reception. They will be primarily responsible for covering Otis Taylor, Kansas City's fine flanker, who flip flops from left to right depending on the formation.

Willie Wood is a superb free safety and Tom Brown has come along fine at strong safety, a point the Chiefs may try to attack with tight end Fred Arbanas.

The Packers' offensive line of tackles Bob Skoronski and Forrest Gregg, guards Fuzzy Thurston and Jerry Kramer and center Bill Cutty will be giving away weight to the Chiefs' front four but they have done a fine job protecting Starr who has been intercepted only three times all year.

The Chiefs may have the edge in kicking because Don Chandler, the Packers' field goal man and punter, has been in a slump. But Chandler usually rises to the occasion when the

Army Coach Named Best of the Year

By JACK DONOVAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — At the age 47 when the world has passed many men by, Tom Cahill of Army unexpectedly found himself on top of that world today.

Cahill, quiet and with few extrovert qualities, was picked by his colleagues in the American Football Coaches Association as University Coach of the Year Thursday night.

He achieved the honor after being a head coach less than a year and at a time in life when few assistant coaches feel that such a coaching opportunity will ever come their way.

In a notable contrast, the coaches named Dan Jessee, 65, who retired after 35 years at Trinity, in Hartford, Conn., as College Coach of 1966.

To complete a sweep of honors for Eastern coaches, Ben Schwartzwalder of Syracuse was elected president of the association Thursday.

Cahill was little known outside his area when shortly before the start of spring practice last year Coach Paul Dietzel decided the University of South Carolina was more attractive than the U.S. Military Academy.

While the Army job went practically begging, Cahill, the Cadets' freshman coach for seven years, conducted spring drills.

Three days before spring practice ended Col. Ray Murphy, director of athletics, told Cahill, "The job is yours, if you want it."

Cahill moved his family into the big house provided the head coach at West Point, but they did not immediately unpack everything.

"At 47, well, that's a little late to suddenly find yourself in a head coaching job," Cahill said. "I was fortunate in that I had been there seven years and had a good understanding of the operation."

"At one time or another I had coached every kid on the varsity. So I wasn't stepping into something sight unseen."

Cahill took a demoralized, losing team that had enjoyed few successes under Dietzel and produced eight victories in 10 games, including a 20-7 triumph over Navy.

It was after the third game — 11-0 over Penn State for victory No. 3 — that Cahill said he returned home and told his wife, "You can unpack the dishes now."

The defeats were to nation champion Notre Dame and to Tennessee.

Cubs said the acquisition of Wills, irked with the Dodgers, makes the Pirates the team to beat.

Wills will "give 200 per cent instead of just 100 per cent" for the Pirates, "a good club to begin with," Durocher said.

Wills, who signed in his hometown of Spokane, Wash., fell into disfavor with Dodgers' owner Walter O'Malley when he left the team during a barnstorming tour of Japan, asserting he needed to return to the United States for treatment of an injured knee.

Brown, who gave up infielder-outfielder Bob Bailey and infielder Gene Michael to the Dodgers, said Wills' knee trouble is cleared up.

Wills' signing was only one of several to be announced Thursday, the Boston Red Sox leading the way with 13.

Pitcher Jack Fisher, being counted on heavily by the New York Mets, came to terms. The right-hander posted an 11-14 record last season.

St. Louis signed veteran center fielder Curt Flood and rookie right-handed pitcher Joe DiBaflo. Flood needs to play only the first two games of next season without an error to set a new National League record of 187 straight errorless games for an outfielder. He hit .267 in 1966 after three consecutive .300-plus years.

San Francisco also signed a key pitcher, Bob Bolin, a right-hander who was 11-10 last season with four of his losses being shutouts, came to terms for an estimated $30,000.

Philadelphia signed three players, and Atlanta announced it had added four to its fold.

Infielder Phil Linz, right-handed pitcher Bob Buhl, 6-8 in 1966 with the Cubs and Philadelphia, and right-hander Dick Hall, 6-2 in relief with the world champion Baltimore Orioles, were the Phillies signed.

Agreeing to terms with Atlanta were pitcher Denny Lemaster, Dick Kelly and Pat Jarvis and infielder Woody Woodward. The southpaw Lemaster was 11-8 last year.

Jason Winkman, the hero of Don von Elsnor's "Ace of Spies" is a great bridge player, but like all great bridge players he goes wrong on occasion.

His two spade overcall as East was a typical weak jump overcall. He might have saved at six spades but decided to hope that he could beat the club slam.

He describes how he took his ace of spades and returned the jack to advise his pupil partner sitting West that declarer held the king and queen of spades. The description continues when Winkman points out that declarer proceeded to rattle off six club tricks. On the third club lead it was up to Winkman to discard. By this time he had counted declarer for seven clubs, three spades and three red cards. It was also apparent that West was holding both red kings—otherwise South would claim his contract. Winkman had to tell his partner which king to keep guarded and he did this by chucking his one diamond on the third trump.

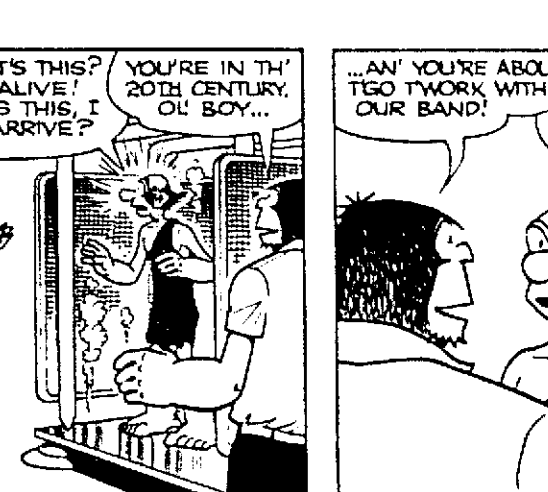

This play should have alerted West but unfortunately for Winkman that one diamond was the seven spot. Somehow or other West thought that Winkman was showing diamond strength and unguarded the king of diamonds.

We agree with Winkman that West should have realized the early seven of diamonds discard followed by all those spades showed one diamond and only one diamond but West was not an expert and Winkman could and should have protected his partner by leading the seven of diamonds at trick two. This could not have done him any harm because it should have been apparent to an expert East that South would hold a seven-card suit in clubs and have 12 tricks if he also held either red king.

CU CHI, Vietnam—(NEA)—Dave Kropp, 21, never fires a weapon, never throws a grenade and never kills the enemy in this war.

But no matter. He's a soldier, anyway.

Nobody would have figured it. When he joined the 25th Infantry Division Kropp was branded a square. No drink, no gamble, no swear. If he got unusually angry he would say, "Dang!"

Then, word got out. "The louse," one guy fumed.

Kropp was a conscientious objector.

He had come by the title honestly enough. No political connections, no lofty theories on the legality of conflict, no condemnations of aggression. Kropp simply was and is God-fearing.

In Caddo, Okla., he had grown up in a loosely knit but strangely enduring religion with no name. "Undenominational faith," it said on his draft papers. A sect with no church, no tithing, no headquarters and, unless somebody got up as a volunteer at the weekly fellowship meetings, no preachers. Just God-fearing.

People here, though, didn't understand. He was, to some, a coward. A man who would not pick up a rifle and fight for his country.

"Fink," was a name they used.

Or worse.

But no more. And never again. Recently Dave Kropp, a combat medic, wrapped up the name-calling in bloody bandages.

He was in the jungle at the time. His unit, company-sized, was spread out in an imperfect circle and hugging the ground. They had walked into a trap and a regiment of guerrillas surrounded them.

The fight was furious. The sound of rifles was endless. Chunks were dug from the earth by automatic fire; bark was split from trees and hundreds of hand grenades dropped into the U.S. position. Casualties mounted.

"Help me!" "I'm hit."

"Get a medic over here."

Kropp did all that he could. He wrapped wounds up with bandages from the victims' first-aid pouches. He picked pieces of shrapnel out of fragmented holes. He pulled fallen men back out of the line of fire. He cleaned and patched and comforted.

One of the early injured was hit in the back, the shoulder and just below the heart. He stopped breathing. The medic spread him flat and instantly applied artificial respiration.

But it didn't work.

Other operations, however, did work. And in the ensuing hours, Kropp saved at least two lives, possibly many others.

One was a man with a sunken chest wound. A .30 caliber round had penetrated the GI's lung and air was seeping through the small hole in short gurgling rushes.

Kropp acted rapidly and confidently. He applied a large bandage which had been smeared with petroleum jelly. The cloth smothered the hole, the jelly was airtight, and the man began to breathe again.

"Am I O.K.?"

"Take it easy."

"Is it bad?"

"You'll be fine."

The medic bounced up and down between patients, partly from running, partly from ducking. And when men were hit in open clearings, Kropp would crawl out to them on his stomach.

There were scores of wounds, hundreds of punctures. One man had his elbow blown off; another had pieces of steel in his cheek; another suffered from a baseball-sized hole in his upper arm.

Kropp treated them all. In 30 hours of virtually continuous combat the medic handled 25 casualties, some more than once.

Eventually, of course, the battle ended. Reinforcements arrived. The company was rescued. The survivors were comforted with cigarettes. Nobody offered the medic any, though.

Dave Kropp never smokes.

DAVID KROPP is an Army medic from Oklahoma who knows how to be a soldier and yet knows nothing about a rifle.

HAVING A FLING is a workman at a tissue paper mill in Neenah, Wis., who throws the balled leading edge of a two-ton roll of creped wadding over the top of a folding machine to thread the roll. The material is used to make paper napkins, facial and bathroom tissue. Use of tissue products has tripled in the past 20 years.

Little Doubt LBJ After a Second Term

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, bouncing back from months of comparative silence, is as full of energy and ideas as ever, which would seem to wash out any guessing that he won't try for a second term in 1968.

There was a time, earlier in his presidency, when Johnson kept himself almost constantly in the public eye with speeches or pronouncements. He did an almost complete about face on that in the last months of 1966.

But his State of the Union message Tuesday night, delivered to Congress in person and taking up almost one hour and 10 minutes of national television and radio time, was like his three previous messages, starting in 1964.

It dripped with proposals and programs and promises to get on with unfinished business. In domestic affairs alone the President dipped into at least 21 different fields with recommendations made then or to be made.

Yet, there was a difference between Tuesday night's talk and the previous State of the Union messages, both in what he said and the way he said it.

Gone was the excessive use of facial expressions as he explored the problems and made his points. He was straight-faced as he addressed Congress.

Those who have been critical of him for the way he delivered a talk — the expressions, the eye-squinting, the gestures — would have trouble finding the same fault in this latest talk.

In short, Johnson on television Tuesday night was a different Johnson. This showed up, too, at his televised news conference Dec. 31. There is as much ginger as ever but less self-consciousness.

The new Johnson is a lot more careful and thoughtful about his public image.

Further, the writing technique in Tuesday night's message was better than the earlier ones in sentence structure and matter-of-factness, without trimmings or over-use of short sentences.

And, full of ideas as Tuesday night's message was, it still was less controversial than some of its predecessors. Except for his suggestion to increase taxes to help pay for the war in Vietnam, there was very little to stir his listeners on racial, economic or other grounds.

Such hot issues of the past, like Medicare or federal aid to education, were missing. Johnson's stress was on a better life for everybody in this country.

His suggestions for improvement ranged from fighting poverty to building up better police forces to fight crime and giving the states ever more federal aid and cooperation.

But Johnson did not propose giving the states a bundle of federal tax revenue to use as they pleased, an idea that has been talked about a lot recently, particularly by Republicans.

The recommendations he made covered such a broad field of American life — backed up by his promise to send Congress special messages on a number of them — will keep him busy and in the public mind for months.

In short, the whole thrust of his talk on domestic problems was one of aggressive action by him although, by repetition, he made it plain he wouldn't be high-handed but would seek the advice and consent and approval of Congress.

He was far less specific and inclusive in the foreign field. There he generalized mostly on American help and cooperation in all the continents of the world.

But the one place where he was very specific and emphatic was Vietnam. He didn't budge an inch on American participation in the war there.

America's Young Lions of 1966

Since 1938, ten young men of outstanding achievements have been selected annually by the United States Jaycees from hundreds of nominees submitted from all over the country. The ten men selected this year will be honored by the Jaycees Jan. 13-14 at an Awards Congress in Jekyll Island, Georgia. Over the past 29 years, honorees have included the late John F. Kennedy, Richard Nixon, Leonard Bernstein, and the late Dr. Thomas Dooley. Following are the past year's ten, and their achievements:

William S. Carpenter

Sanford Greenburg

Robert Price

Dr. Walter Lane, Jr.

Ralph Nader

● Capt. William Carpenter, 29, Springfield, Pa., who gained national fame for inspirational leadership and skill as an end on the West Point football team, ordered air strikes on his own position in the Vietnam jungles as a last effort to prevent his company from being completely destroyed by Viet Cong. ● Sanford Greenburg, 25, Washington, D.C., despite near total blindness, earned four academic degrees, established a successful business, authored a book about U.S. foreign policy, and developed a revolutionary machine on the principles of compressed speech. ● Robert Price, 34, New York City, not only carved out a successful business career, but also became a U.S. Congressman from New York, managed political campaigns for Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and Mayor John Lindsay, and served one year as deputy mayor of New York at the age of 33. ● Dr. Walter Lane Jr., 32, of Temple Terrace, Fla., won the respect of his medical colleagues as a researcher into diagnosis of bacterial infections, and in education concerning the role of the family physician in a community. ● Ralph Nader, 32, Winsted, Conn., authored the 1965 best-seller, "Unsafe at Any Speed," which was considered largely responsible for achievement of auto-safety legislation passed by the U.S. Congress. ● Lester R. Brown, 32, Washington, D.C., distinguished himself as a leading authority on the critical world food problem, and authored two books which sparked much concern across the nation regarding the food problem in other nations. ● John Putman, 27, Huntsville, Ala., achieved outstanding success as a businessman, professor, athlete and lecturer, despite the fact that he began losing his sight at the age of 14. ● Joseph Callano, 35, Washington, D.C., is a veteran of government service, including chief counsel of the Dept. of the Army, troubleshooter for Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and, most recently, special assistant to the President. ● Morris Dees, 30, Montgomery, Ala., amassed a fortune amounting to $3 million by age 29 by creative thinking and wise investments. ● Wil Rose, 35, Kansas City, Mo., has a concern for people in less-privileged parts of the world that led him to establish Development and Technical Assistance International, (DATA) a "clearing house" for the exchange of problems and solutions between Americans abroad and Americans at home. Later he became president of the People-to-People organization.

Super Bowl Has Two Battles: GB vs. KC; NBC vs. CBS

By JOAN CROSBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—No matter how spectacular, colossal and high-scoring the Super Bowl football game may turn out Sunday (Jan. 15), the real battle of the titans is on the sidelines.

Or rather, up in the press box.

It's the rivalry between the two networks telecasting the game between the Green Bay Packers, champions of the National Football League, and the Kansas City Chiefs, champions of the American Football League, for the world title. CBS and NBC both will televise the game and they'll be fighting for all-mighty ratings.

NBC may get the edge, putting its faith in the crack sportscasting team of Curt Gowdy and Paul Christman, one-time pro quarterback. CBS counters with Jack Whitaker, Frank Gifford and Pat Summerall.

Gowdy, recognized by the critically tough members of his business as one of the very best, was asked if he thought football and television, as a team, had reached its peak.

"I don't know," he said. "I don't think anyone knows. There is concern about too much, but I don't see any overexposure because I am always working. I suppose there is danger of overexposing anything."

"But the commissioners and owners are not dumbbells, and they won't ruin their game. Besides, how can you overexpose something that is only on once a week for a few months?"

Gowdy says a sportscaster must stay on a training schedule nearly as rigid as an athlete's.

"You can't go on the air tired or hung over. All we have is a pencil and we are on our own in that booth. If you make a mistake, it's not like a filmed show where you can do it over. We can't get our mistakes back."

A Wyoming native who was a fine athlete at the University of Wyoming, Gowdy has telecast practically every sport possible to television. He's had thorough training in his field, and for that reason believes that the mad rush these days to drag athletes off the playing field and in front of a mike and term them sports-casters is doing a disservice to both the athletes and the audience. (His 7-year partner, Christman, does not fit this category.)

CURT GOWDY

DOM De LUISE

Joan Crosby's TV Notebook

"I spent two years working in Cheyenne and four in Oklahoma City before I came up to the majors with the Yankees in 1949. Now they take a guy and throw him in to cover any big event."

Dom DeLuise is a man who has had a bit of trouble getting his name before the public.

It's not that he hasn't been before the public. It's just that if a columnist wanted to say something nice about him he would write about a "funny man who looked like Jonathan Winters" and not mention his name.

When he was on The Entertainers he did a skit on the first show and got credit the next day for being funny. He also got credit for being Jack Burns, who was on the show but not in the skit. When he got a part in the movie, "Fail-Safe," he saw his name in large letters in the credits spelled Dom DeLuise.

Now he has his own television special and they're spelling his name The Bar-rump Bump Show.

The show has a title which refers to the sound made by a drum roll which is used to punctuate a joke's punch line. But it really is Dom's special and is a pilot for a series which would star him.

The show will be telecast on NBC-TV on Jan. 18, immediately following the 90-minute special on Bob Hope's Christmas trip to Vietnam.

"I like to work and this could be the beginning of something," DeLuise said. "It's kind of like the Gleason show because I do a lot of characters."

Dom says he owes a lot to Garry Moore, who spotted him playing a role of an insane psychiatrist in the Broadway musical, "Here's Love."

"From that I got a three-minute spot on Garry's old television show. Then I was asked back for a seven-minute spot. Then the same production company remembered me when they were doing The Entertainers. Fortunately, Doris Day has a television set and she saw me on that show and I wound up in her movie, 'The Glass Bottom Boat.'"

The right people apparently remembered him.

Sick Pay Gets Special Break in Tax Return

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

If you were absent from work because of sickness or injury during 1966 and were paid by your employer while you were away, you may have a sick-pay credit coming. It depends upon how long you were out and what percentage of your normal wages or salary was paid.

If you received more than 75 per cent of your normal pay you can claim no sick pay for the first 30 days of absence. After the 30-day period you may claim your full pay up to a weekly limit of $100.

Should you have received 75 per cent or less of your regular pay, your credit begins after the first week of absence from work. The credit is the lesser of the pay received, or $75 a week. And if the employee who receives 75 per cent or less of his normal pay spent at least one day in the hospital during any part of his illness or injury treatment his credit begins from the first day of such enforced absence.

After the first 30 days this worker, too, has his credit stepped up to the weekly limit of $100 or actual pay, whichever is the lesser.

Whenever a sick-pay credit is claimed, a statement must be attached to the return explaining the circumstances and detailing the length of the illness, amount paid by the employer, your regular pay and whether or not you were hospitalized. Form 2440, available from IRS, is used for this purpose.

Or this type of explanation would suffice: Nature of illness: tonsillectomy. Time absent: Sept. 12 to 19, 1966. Hospitalized: City Hospital, Sept. 12 to 14. Regular salary: $150 weekly. Received as sick pay: 70 per cent of wages, or $105 weekly. Sick pay credit: $75.

Soviet Plot Developed to Ruin Mao

MOSCOW (AP) —

In the back rooms of the massive gray Soviet Communist party headquarters, a plot has developed to ruin Mao Tse-tung's reputation.

The outlines are gradually becoming visible as the Soviet press whittles away at various claims to greatness made on behalf of the Chinese leader.

Informed sources report that the sharpest attack is yet to come: A Soviet confirmed that Mao stole Soviet ideas on guerrilla warfare to establish his reputation as "one of history's great military theorists."

Other parts of the plot range from assertions that Mao's regime is soft on capitalists — to a Communist, the blackest sin — to scoffing at his much-vaunted poetry.

The plot is just one part of the current Kremlin attack on "Mao Tse-tung and his group," who are accused of following an increasingly dangerous anti-Soviet policy.

There has never been any love lost around the Kremlin for Mao, who rose to prominence in the late 1920s by ousting Moscow influences from the Chinese Communist party. He repeatedly defied Soviet thinking on the proper course toward victory in China. Success proved him right.

Things got nasty in 1947 when Liu Shao-chi, then Mao's loyal deputy but now his opponent in the Peking power struggle, made a bold claim for the leader.

"Mao Tse-tung's great accomplishment has been to change Marxism from a European to an Asiatic form," Liu said.

Lenin's Soviet heirs have never been willing to admit that anyone but themselves has the right to interpret Marx. Rival claims are met with the fervid anger of religious fanaticism.

Triskaidecaphobia Rears Its Neurotic Little Head Again

By JOHN VINOCUR

NEW YORK (AP) — Triskaidecaphobia, that unspeakable multisyllabic disease, rears its neurotic little head again today, advising: Charley, you'd do best to hide under the covers.

It's not known how many Americans actually do stay in bed on Friday the 13th, but a little group of concerned people figures every time the date comes up on the calendar it costs the nation $250 million in business.

Nick Matsoukas, who's head of the National Committee of 13 Against Triskaidecaphobia, says his efforts over the last 20 years to exorcise the ghost have been less than completely successful.

"It's ridiculous, but people still don't close business deals. They don't make big decisions. They find excuses for staying home. If we still have this kind

Supporting artillery fire hit a unit of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division by mistake today, killing eight American soldiers and wounding 34, an American command spokesman reported.

"Preliminary investigation indicates error in plotting the firing data," the spokesman said.

He added that an investigation is continuing.

Pilkinton Says He Got Enough Votes

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —

James H. Pilkinton, who was defeated in the lieutenant governor's race in the general election, said he purposely delayed making a statement until after Maurice Britt was certified as the winner and inaugurated.

"If I had prevailed, as I believe I would have, the Democrats would surely have been charged with favoring me regardless of the merits involved," Pilkinton said.

"I had no desire to put the General Assembly on such a spot," he added.

Pilkinton said he "probably received a majority of the votes, but did not get the office."

An accounting firm released totals which showed Pilkinton with 272,049 votes to Britt's 275,333.

Offers Bill to End Double Taxation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rep. Cayle Windsor Jr. of Little Rock introduced a tax relief bill Thursday that he estimated would cost the state about $1.7 million annually in tax revenues.

Windsor's bill would allow a deduction of up to $1,000 for federal income taxes in figuring state income taxes and revise the state tax schedule. He said 99 per cent of Arkansas taxpayers would receive deductions of from $4.02 to $15 and only one per cent of persons earning more than 40,000 a year would pay more.

"This is tax relief in its mildest form," he said. "I think the state can easily absorb this revenue differential."

Sen. Oscar Alagood of Little Rock introduced a bill in the Senate that would permit unmarried taxpayers, or married taxpayers filing separate returns, to deduct up to $500 of their federal taxes from state returns. Married couples filing a joint return could deduct $1,000.

Both measures were introduced as the legislature adjourned for the weekend. It will reconvene at 1 p.m. Monday.

Rockefeller Won't Be Pushed Into a Gambling Controversy

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller vowed Thursday night that he was "not going to be pushed into taking precipitate action" as he found himself embroiled in controversy over gambling just two days after taking office.

The subject was broached at the governor's first news conference Wednesday when newsmen questioned him about a newspaper report that gambling had resumed at Hot Springs.

He said then that he had no knowledge of "flagrant" gambling in Hot Springs, but that he would expect local authorities to crack down if it did exist. He was vague as to what action he might take if local authorities did not act. He did not specify whether he would ask the State Police to investigate.

Rockefeller told newsmen Thursday morning that he would move forcefully to end flagrant gambling abuses reported to him in which local authorities do not act.

However, he added, the newspaper report about resumption of gambling in Hot Springs did not appear to warrant action at this time.

"If gambling again becomes flagrant, I will move on my own initiative," he said. "If it becomes obnoxious to the people, it behooves the governor to act."

The Arkansas Democrat, in its Thursday afternoon editions, ran stories side-by-side giving an account of Rockefeller's current statements and remarks he made during his unsuccessful campaign for governor in 1964 when he lost to former Gov. Orval Faubus.

The Democrat said Rockefeller appeared on television on Sept. 14, 1964 and said:

"When Gov. Faubus was campaigning in 1954, he said control of gambling was the responsibility of the state and if elected he would enforce the state's laws. But it was not until nine years and four months later and a legislative resolution that he did anything about it."

Faubus has said I could have gotten a lawyer and gone to court at any time to enforce the laws. But I thought the governor had to enforce the laws by his oath."

The newspaper said on June 20, 1964, Rockefeller released a "statement of beliefs" and No. 4 on the list read:

"I believe in law enforcement and I would not permit the open flaunting of the law as has been the case in Hot Springs with gambling and illegal sale of liquor. I am morally opposed to organized gambling, and therefore would not support its legislation."

U.S. Drive Aimed at Mekong Delta

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — American support troops have arrived in the Mekong Delta to start the long-heralded movement of U.S. ground forces into South Vietnam's rice bowl.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland's headquarters announced today that U.S. engineer, signal and security units are preparing a new base near My Tho, some 40 miles southwest of Saigon.

U.S. commanders have said the canal and river-laced delta must be wrested from Viet Cong control if the war in Vietnam is to be won by the allied side. It has been the only area of South Vietnam in which the ground fighting has been left to the Vietnamese.

The arrival of support troops signalled the movement into the delta — where more than a third of South Vietnam's 15 million people live — of at least a division of U.S. infantry combat forces in the near future.

The only Americans in the delta have been advisers to Vietnamese units, U.S. Navy river patrol boats and some helicopter units.

The delta movement was announced as U.S. B52 bombers pounded Viet Cong base camps and escape routes north of the "iron triangle" and ground forces inside the triangle reported a mounting enemy toll of close to 400 killed, captured or surrendered.

The B52s struck at four enemy base camps in the 12th raid in support of the massive Operation Cedar Falls, which is designed to clear out and neutralize the jungled triangular area 20 to 30 miles north of Saigon.

As the war's largest ground sweep rounded out its sixth day, U.S. forces reported a near-record haul of 2,100 tons of enemy rice and large amounts of other supplies, as well as destruction of hundreds of bunkers, trenches and tunnels.

U.S. spokesmen also reported that nearly 5,000 Vietnamese villagers and peasants have been moved from their homes in the triangle to be resettled elsewhere and that the evacuation is expected to total 8,000 to 10,000 before the operation ends.

Only small-scale ground combat was reported elsewhere in South Vietnam, and bad weather once again cut heavily into U.S. air strikes over North Vietnam.

U.S. pilots flew 77 strike missions against North Vietnam Thursday and reported destroying or damaging 25 cargo barges and junks, four bridges, five storage areas and a radar site.

Fliers also reported cutting up the highways near the Mu Gia and Barthelmy Passes, two of the main gateways for men and materiel going south.

U.S. planes also showed 1.6 million psychological warfare leaflets on Hanoi, the Communist capital. A U.S. spokesman said the leaflets, of three different kinds, urged the North Vietnamese soldiers to defect to the allies when they were sent south and cautioned the population not to repair bridges and roads because these targets would be bombed again.

In South Vietnam, a militia platoon of about 30 men suffered heavy casualties, South Vietnamese headquarters said, when the Viet Cong attacked a post 356 miles northeast of Saigon early today. The Viet Cong made simultaneous mortar attacks on two other Vietnamese positions two miles away, but a spokesman said government casualties there were light.
